

Revelation With Daniel

Just Today

I was at Walmart ordering something for the family and lo and behold, God had someone there waiting for me. =) God knows that I am very eager to speak with people about Him and His truth, so He opened the way again.

She asked something about why I had moved from CA to GA. I answered that it was God and His providences that led my family here. That led us both into quite a conversation about our experiences as Christians. She explained that her daughter had died some 10 years ago. I grieved with her. Shortly thereafter I asked if she would like to hear a bit more about what the Bible says regard death, and she was very interested. So, thankful for technology again, I was able to send her a link to a study I had presented years ago. Hopefully she will be able to see with eyes wide open!

Recalling that during my walk time I had prayed this very morning for God to send more people my way that are truly interested—I'm excited to see if this is an answer to that prayer!

More Saints Cast Out of the Synagogue

You likely have met someone who has a story about themselves or another being cast out of a church for some egregious sin, yet how frequent it has become to hear about people being cast out of their churches for believing differently than the corporate church about the trinity! WOW!

About a week ago I got a text which included a letter responding to a letter from a church... that church had only been visited four times by the man who sent me the text. One of those times he stayed for a fellowship meal and happened to sit with the first elder. The first elder asked about his Christian experience and was told that the study about God has recently been of great interest. Oh? The first elder probed a bit more, and the visitor decided it was a good time to share about the truth that has been so exhilarating to so many of us, about the Father and His Son.

The first elder was not as excited. We know that to be true because the visitor was sent a letter requesting that he not visit that church again. Okay... was the visitor a jerk? No, I know this person, and he is kind, down-to-earth, intelligent, etc.

A few days back I got an email from a gal which included a forward from a different church to her parents... the parents had learned about the Father and His Son from the Bible, getting started because their daughter and son-in-law's interest and dedication.

I was not shocked, but again saddened that the email showed the churches strength from the church manual (not so much from the Bible), which stated,

"The reasons for this recommendation and disciplinary action are as follows:

1.) Violation of church manual reasons for discipline #1 (pg. 68 of the 2022 SDA Church Manual, 20th Edition): "Denial of faith in the fundamentals of the gospel and in the Fundamental Beliefs of the Church or teaching doctrines contrary to the same."

2.) Violation of church manual reasons for discipline #10 (pg. 68 of the 2022 SDA Church Manual, 20th Edition): "Adherence to or taking part in a divisive or disloyal movement or organization. (with additional manual notes to see pp. 63-64 for further clarification)

3.) Violation of church manual reasons for discipline #11 (pg. 68 of the 2022 SDA Church Manual, 20th Edition): "Persistent refusal to recognize properly constituted church authority or to submit to the order and discipline of the church."

As previously revealed to the board of elders, both of you ( _____ & _____ ) have expressed theological beliefs that do not adhere with the Seventh-day Adventist Church beliefs with regards to the Trinity and more specifically the nature of Jesus Christ & the Holy Spirit. In accordance with church manual instructions and Matthew 18 principles; these are the actions..."

Well... for these two families involved with this 'trial of Jesus' in the person of His believers, it's like a divorce. They have loved and served in the Seventh-day Adventist church for their whole lives. To learn that they had been deceived and then cast out because of what they have learned to be truth has been very difficult. Pray for these people, and many like them all over the world.

The Seventh-day Adventist conference in Ethiopia communicated recently that they were ready to cast out about 100 members because of their belief in the truth about God, His Son, and Spirit. Tibesso told me about that in a phone conversation just yesterday.

All of this is truly astounding, as the Bible makes it clear in Matthew 12 that when the Pharisees were equating Christ's work with Beelzebub, they were committing blaspheme against the Spirit.

Spirit 505 is Complete!

In response to part 20 of 22, the Spirit 505 series, someone said on YouTube:

"Wow!! A.M.A.Z.I.N.G. These just keep getting better and better. I'm just so blessed to be able to share this truth with all who were listening. I could sense the unity of the Spirit. Thank you. 🍷"

There are many other encouraging comments as well, and praise God that His truth is becoming so clear! I challenge every one to share the truth with as many as you are able. 🙏

The final 22nd presentation should come out this week, and I will do a bit of advertising to encourage others to go to that series to learn with us. If they find something amiss, I mentioned that I would definitely let people know. Please pray with me about this.

Giving Another Car Away?

We ought to be practical Christians, right? Yes, I agree. You may recall that we have given vehicles away in the past (one was given to us, and it was such a blessing during the time we needed it that we gave it to someone else, and after years gone by it's still in service!). We gave a different vehicle to a couple who wanted to move out of the city (after we used it to tow a trailer to our new GA location), and we are doing it again...

Why? Well... because of the GA laws... We bought a car at a really good price in another state—finding out later that it has been totaled! Somehow God hid that from my eyes during the purchase, but I had eyes wide open when coming to GA, trying to get it licensed to drive on the roads, and then told that it would need to be inspected. Okay, why? Totaled! What!?

The inspector wouldn't pass the car. Amazed at his reasoning, I took it to a body shop which was suggested to me back in August of last year... Yes, it's been a year since we tried to get it registered. Taking it in to the shop, them not working on it, me asking how long it will take, them not working on it, me coming again week after week, and them still not working on it, I took the car back to use it again until they called saying it was a better time for them. After taking it back to them, they again neglected to work on it, saying that other jobs had come in, etc. Ugh... So... I called other places (few in this area, as we are in a small town), and scheduled to bring it in yet again to another place.

So, after a full year of going back and forth with this God put it strongly on my heart to help a family whose vehicle broke down in another state while they were rescuing their son from a difficult situation. Whew... so... now, here we go! I'm purchasing a non-totaled vehicle from Georgia!

At the Chicago Airport

While at the airport a few weeks ago I was wandering around (my wife was with me this time!) trying to figure out where to eat, where to sit, what to do for the s.e.v.e.n. hours we were there... Well, it seems we were just bumping off the walls for a while, but then sat right next to the people God wanted us to witness to!

My wife and I prayed together for our food, then looked up at one of the neighboring travelers which said, "Amen." I immediately talked to her (with her two family members) about the Lord, but then my wife jumped in and they chatted about family, health, Christianity, etc.

Just at that time another dear soul sat closer to me than the others had been, and she overheard our conversation. She was young with a daughter and had a couple small tattoos and a nose-ring. I love sharing with people who look a bit different. =)

It came out that she had been raised by missionary parents, her brother is currently on a mission trip, and she loves to the book of Revelation. Really!? Me too!!! So, we talked for over two hours about the book of Revelation (in which she was deeply interested), then chatted about the second coming and what happens when people die. It was incredible for both my wife and I at the same time in two different groups.

So, that seven hour layover wasn't that bad after all...

The weekend before I had gone to Michigan to preach and, just as we all would, I locked my truck when leaving it at the airport for two days. Not thinking much about the truck, I got back after a wonderful time with the saints in Blissfield, and to my surprise, the driver's side window was missing when I returned! I stuck my hand through, then my head, looking around to see if anything was missing, broken, etc.

Nope! I had left the window down! Thank the Lord for keeping us and our things safe for His work.
