

Keep the Faith

As Paul said, may it be our experience, “I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith” (2 Timothy 4:7). It’s no easy task, it’s not glorious, but it’s possible.

“The faith which was once delivered unto the saints” (Jude 1:3) is one which can “keep you from falling” (1:24). After all, it’s Christ’s faith, “Christ in you, the hope of glory” (Colossians 1:27).

As many of you may know, my mother is not well. She has healed from cancer naturally the first time (including hydrotherapy, juicing, exercise, minerals, vitamins, fasting, and much more all bathed in prayer), yet this time the natural remedies haven’t been as effective (though still bathed in prayer). She has been overwhelmed with the love shown, the concern, etc. by those who have offered alternative thoughts about health, and she has been thankful.

In the morning I was preparing something to eat before going out to get more stuff from a hardware store for one of the projects going on here at the home/farm/office/publishing house... (friends are finishing a half-built building that came with the purchase of this property, turning it into the house for the batteries and inverter for the solar panel system). While preparing, I looked outside to watch my mother rolling down the gravel driveway on her electric stroller, surrounded by green grass, tall trees, tall weeds in a distant field, and followed by four or five cats and a small dog. I thought... amen.

We are so blessed to have her living with us (my wife and kids) for over nine years now, working through another bout of cancer. She’s one ‘tough cookie,’ as my father used to say.

So, if you’re out there and under the curse of any type of illness, please know that you are not alone, and that God cares for you right now just as He always has. He is looking forward to you being whole and healthy, much more than you are. So be sure to spend your time wisely, in Bible study, prayer, and witnessing as you can, and...

Keep the faith.

Camping with Strange Providences

I love camping. The fresh morning air, birds, camp fires with the smell of burning wood, the cool breezes sounding through the trees at night, crickets, streams, creative meals for large group of people, chats about anything (except the truth about God...) etc.

My family was out camping with a group of friends and had a wonderful time planting as many seeds as cordially possible. I was intrigued by a couple of providences on my way home that I hope to make sense in a short time—why? I don't know, just thought I would share.

Traveling home I saw a tree fallen on the other side of the road yet partially in that lane. I regularly see those type of things and want to help change the situation for the better. I wanted to move the tree out of the road, but couldn't find a place to turn around for a long time, so then said, "Oh, well. God, please keep people safe..." Well, I had previously missed my turn off because I didn't remember there was a detour, and had to turn back. "Perfect," I thought. "Had I noticed the turn off I wouldn't be able to get that tree out of the road." Sure enough, I was able to connect a chain from the tree to the truck and pull it out of the way, making sure anyone passing by wouldn't hurt themselves or someone else.

Just a short time later I was driving on the main highway still coming home. I was really tired, having a difficult time getting comfortable the night before (not enough cushion for the bones...), so I decided to pull off the road and take a nap instead of trying to fight the sleep. As I was pulling off the road I noticed another truck pulling a trailer and a red corvette pulling off the road behind me. There was no turn off there so I was wondering... I rolled down the window as they pulled up and the woman in the passengers seat told me that I had just lost my center hub cap from the truck at the last bridge. She said it was still there and suggested I should go back and get it. They knew this because the cap had come off and flown right over the top of their son who was driving the red corvette right behind them. He called and had told them. Wow! Thanks!

So, deciding I better go get that cap before trying to sleep I spun around to the other side of the highway as soon as possible and went past the first tiny little bridge, came to the next long one and thought it must be it, but then considered further... No, I better go to one more just in case. I got to the third bridge and turned the truck around again. That third bridge had the cap leaning right up against the concrete guard. My thinking was, "How random... God seems to care for the little things sometimes. How would I have been able to take care of that tree except I had forgotten about the turn off, and the center cap unless I was tired and ready to pull off at just the right time?"

I don't understand all of how God uses our thoughts and impressions, but how many of them do we not even notice! May God continue to lead us in the little things, and especially in the ways He wants us to go.

The New Building is Nearly Completed

There are just a couple things left to do for the shell of the building to be completed, but everything around here takes lots of time! The doors are the last things to complete, and then it will be ready for starting to build on the inside.

While speaking with the head of the crew which put together this God-given building, as mentioned in a previous newsletter, I finally realized why God has chosen this crew... I'm going to call the lead crew member C. C asked what kind of religion I ascribe to. "I am a Bible believer" was my response. He asked specifically about Jesus Christ... "Is he the only God?" I said, "No, His father is." I then explained Adam and Eve, and referred to Jesus Christ as the only begotten Son brought forth from the Father.

He said something like, “You’re right. That’s what the Bible teaches. Why isn’t anyone else teaching these things? I go to churches all the time and they all teach something about God that isn’t true.” I told him about my previous experience and invitation to pastors, yet how so few had responded to the interview of the five videos about God, His Son, His Spirit, and the two parts on the trinity. He was very interested in watching those videos himself. And... he told me later on the phone that he has watched many of the online videos—amen!

The inside of this building is in the planning stages of having six rooms on the inside left, or the side nearest the fire in the picture. Remember, it was providentially 20 feet tall (also told about in a previous newsletter). There will be three rooms spanning the majority of the bottom level, then three on the top, with full bathrooms in each of the rooms. This is in hopes that God will use it for not only camp meetings, but also a temporary place for those who are in need of getting out of the cities, people in need of health restoration (with the lower rooms prepared to that end), and other means to help people.

While working on getting the solar panel system set up, the contractor (a believer three hours away from our home) was suggesting lots of good ideas, as he is not only into health, but could prepare a place for that purpose! I thought again of how God is taking care of so many things beyond our capabilities. Time will tell how all of this will turn out, but I am excited and thankful.

A Message to Elly in Kenya

This was forwarded to me as a praise (we have helped to provide a generator, speakers, and other audio equipment to allow Elly to preach publicly)—

Elly, I thank God for bringing you to our camp a month ago. You have surely helped me with the question about trinity that have been disturbing me for years and years in faith! Surely our God reveals His truth to His servants on the right time.

You are a blessing to me, you have just blown out my mind! I have been in church for so long and I have been sent to minister on week of prayers and even the seasons of camp meetings, but I have NEVER met a minister like you! The just ended camp meetings of this year was not having the topic TRINITY but you brought it in through your Bible study and presented it well.

I want to encourage you to press on, those people that were questioning and opposed to you should not discourage you. Surely that is the teachings that we need in this end time.

I know you will face tough encounters with the pastors but I pray that God gives you the strength to stand with the truth...

Be blessed,

Yours brother in faith”

Souls Baptized

Sami recently told me of 28 souls baptized in Uganda during a crusade they held there. Many people have shown an interest in learning the truth about God, preparing for the mark of the beast and seal of God scenarios. All on this earth will either worship the Father and His image (the One through whom all things are done by the Father, 1 Corinthians 8:6), or the beast and his image (the one through whom all things are done by the father of lies, John 8:44).

Zaddoch told me of three others who accepted baptism in Kenya—and we praise God.

Elder Dan from Kenya reported that around 20 churches gathered together for an evangelistic event, producing interest in 47 souls who left in preparation for baptism.

There are many more things happening in God’s vineyard, but I can’t recall all of them, and I don’t believe for a moment that what I know about is all of what God is doing! He is doing so much more through people like you too!

(Ugh... No pictures because I can’t get into my WhatsApp account here in Curaçao...)

Travels...

Last weekend I was in Graysville, TN. I’m writing from a plane right now heading to Curaçao to help Brian Thomas with a group he has been able to influence there. The weekend after I will be in Texas for a prophecy series from Thursday through Sunday evening. The next weekend, Iowa. I will be in Monterey, CA the next week with the 1889HSDA group, then Cunningham, TN for the next weekend. We’re looking forward to Arizona, Kenya, and India. Please keep us all in prayer that we will be in the hands of a loving and very powerful God.
